From the desk of the Academic Section Chair

by Caitlin Cooper

I’d like to introduce myself as the new Academic Section Chair. I’m Caitlin Cooper, a collection development librarian at Delgado Community College in New Orleans. As I write this, we’ve been enjoying a lovely, if still warm, October here! Fall semester is well underway and the college celebrated a century of service to the greater New Orleans community at its 100th Anniversary Gala Celebration on Friday, September 23, at the National WWII Museum in New Orleans. Our library has entered a number of digitized Delgado artifacts into the Louisiana Digital Library. We have also partnered with the Professional Development Coordinator to have bibliographic instruction modules for faculty, staff, and students.

Thanks to all of you who renewed your memberships in the LLA Academic Section. This academic year brings a new slate of officers. As well as myself as the new Chair, Daenel Tucker, Central Louisiana Technical Community College, is our Secretary. I also want to take a moment to thank our Past Chair, Angela Dunnington (formerly SLU, now Louisiana Tech University) for her guidance during this transition.

Plans for the LLA Annual Conference are underway. It will be in March 2023. The date to submit proposals is November 15, 2022. It is a joint LLA/SELA conference, and the theme is “Library Powers Activate.” You can submit them at the link on the LLA website.

Finally, if you haven’t interacted much with the Section yet, I hope you’ll visit one or more of our events at the 2023 LLA Annual Conference in New Orleans. Please don’t hesitate to contact me (coope@dcc.edu) with your questions about ways you can get involved! Also feel free to post to our Section listserv (lla-academic@lists.llaonline.org).

Academic Section Breakfast & Meeting

LLA Academic Section/ACRL-LA/Subject Specialists/Preservation Interest Group

Breakfast and Meeting
Alexandria, Louisiana
Friday, July 8, 2022

The meeting was called to order by LLA Academic Section Chair, Angela Dunnington, who welcomed the attendees. She announced the new section officers, Shanna Clevenger, Chair; Caitlin Cooper, Vice Chair/Chair-Elect; Kelsye Baudoin, Secretary; and introduced Notes & Tracings newsletter editor, Susan Richard. She introduced Lindsey Lutgring, LSU SLIS student, who is the 2022 winner of the Thorpe Grassroots Grant Award.

Angela welcomed the ACRL/LA Chair, Rebecca Kelly. Rebecca announced that Elizabeth Batte was leaving and had to step down as Vice President/President-Elect. Mike Holt will take her place as the newly elected Vice President/President-Elect. Other officers announced were Treasurer, Daniel DuPont, and Secretary, Jeanne Pavy. She reported the bylaws and web site were recently updated. She promoted their membership and professional development initiatives. Megan Lowe promoted the Virtual Summer Research Forum. The cost is $10 for non-members and free to members of the Louisiana chapter. She also promoted CODEX, the online journal of ACRL/LA. Rebecca and Megan encouraged the attendees to join and volunteer for office.

Angela acknowledged Lindsey Reno as outgoing chair of the Subject Specialists. The section is looking for volunteers to run for the offices of Vice Chair/Chair-Elect and Secretary. The new Chair is Erin Ware.

Angela introduced Charlene Bonnette, Chair of the Preservation Interest Group. She encouraged the attendees to join the group, which discusses preservation issues.

Angela introduced the speakers for the event, Deborah Huntington, “Watson’s Living Library: Everyone has a Story.” Also assisting were Megan Lowe and John Tuggle. Both Deborah and Megan are from Watson Library at Northwestern State University and John is from the Shreve Memorial Library. They spoke to the group about Watson’s Living Library events, which include a discussion on a specific topic through panelists with first-hand knowledge of the topic. The Living Library panel discussions encourage dialogue and researchers can talk with or interview an individual one on one to ask questions and get a first-hand account of what that person saw or lived through. The presentation was well-received.

The session ended with door prizes being distributed.

Patrick Morgan, Director of Library Reference & Instruction, joined the library in January. Before joining Centenary, Patrick worked as Access Services Lead Librarian and Student Success and Outreach Librarian at Savannah State University (Savannah, GA). He has published in College & Undergraduate Libraries, Reference Services Review, and portal: Libraries and the Academy.

Katherine “Kat” Williamson, Technical Services and Interlibrary Loan Librarian joined the library in May of 2022. Kat is originally from Charleston, South Carolina. Before joining Centenary, she was a Reference Librarian at Bossier Parish Community College. She recently proposed starting a new collection development project of building a young adult, popular fiction section that was requested by the students. It has jolted circulation numbers and proved a winner with the students! Currently, Katherine and two other librarians are working on a project that hopes to bring elements from literature review templates across disciplines together to make a concise literature review template for the LIS and Social Sciences field. She presented at LUC in October 2022 on “Item Not Found: Keeping OCLC Holding up to date and improving your ILL statistics.”

LSU Libraries welcomed several new employees. In June, Milad Khanlou and Jessie Whitten were hired as computer analysts; Nicolette Davis joined as Kinesiology, Social Work, and Health Sciences Librarian; and Cambria Huff joined as STEM Librarian. This Fall, LSU Libraries is welcoming visitors to a new exhibition, “Water, Water Everywhere: Control and Consequence in Louisiana’s Coastal Wetlands,” which is on display in Hill Memorial Library now through December 21 and is free and open to the public. The exhibition tells the story of Louisiana’s relationship with water, as revealed in photographs, family papers, business records and a variety of publications that document the infinitely meandering waterways, human attempts to control them and the adversarial attitude toward the marsh embraced in the not-too-distant past. Visit lib.lsu.edu/special for more information.

LSU Libraries was one of five to receive the 2022 Catalyst Fund from LYRASIS and one of 10 awarded the American Library Association’s (ALA) 2022 Carnegie Whitney Grant. Below is more information about each of those projects.

The Libraries’ proposal, “Y’ALL Means All: Piloting a Distributed Digitization Program to Support Digital Diversity,” was awarded to facilitate a broader representation of the state’s digital cultural heritage by helping smaller institutions digitize their physical collections. LSU Libraries will work in collaboration with LSU Alexandria’s (LSUA) library to set up a digitization hub in North Louisiana that will provide digitization equipment and staff expertise to regional institutions that do not currently have access to these resources. Principal investigators on the project are Leah Duncan, Digital Collections Librarian; Gabe Harrell, Digitization Lab Manager; and Elisa Naquin, Metadata and Digital Strategies Librarian. Former Head of Digital Programs and Services, Sophie Ziegler, was also part of the grant proposal.

LSU Libraries’ American Library Association’s 2022 Carnegie Whitney Grant, “Blood and Thunder: The Idealized American West and Its Place Today,” will explore how the idealized myth of the West and westward expansion was used to justify the expulsion and murder of Indigenous peoples, the taking and exploitation of land and resources for economic gains and the exclusion of minority
